

A BRIEF GUIDE TO DATING BARTHOLOMEW MAPS

This page has been compiled by Ken Winch, retired Bartholomew's Librarian and Map Curator.

The foundation of the Bartholomew mapmaking business is generally taken to be the year 1826, the date of John Bartholomew's earliest existing work records.

Bartholomew Edinburgh premises - usually given on map covers:

4a North Bridge	1859-1870
31 Chambers Street	1870-1889 (Originally 17, Brown's Square, changed by the Post Office c. 1875)
Park Road	1889-1911
12 Duncan Street	1911-1995

In 1989 Bartholomew merged with Harper Collins Publishers and in 1995 moved from Edinburgh to the Collins site at: Westerhill Road, Bishopbriggs, Glasgow

Dating on the Maps:

On early editions no date was included on the map and one has to make an estimate from the information depicted or possibly by the advertising on the map covers. In some cases a 4 digit job number is given, usually against the margin in the bottom left corner, which can be identified from Bartholomew company records.

From about 1911 until 1945 an abbreviated dating code was adopted using the last two digits of the publication year preceded by either an "A" or a "B" indicating in which half of the year the map was produced eg. A14, indicating that the map was published in the first half of 1914. This code can usually be found against the margin at either the top or bottom left-hand corner or sometimes centrally in the bottom margin.

From 1946 onwards the date of printing was normally shown at the bottom of the map.

Bartholomew Half Inch to one Mile Series

The sheets of this popular series were revised at frequent intervals and developed through a series of editions with changing sheet lines and numbering. A chronology follows with some notes on the titling of the maps.

In the 1980's sales of these maps dropped and only a few popular sheets covering certain popular tourist areas were revised and by the end of the 1990's the series finally became out of print.

Other clues for dating these maps:

Road Numbering was first added to sheets in 1921 following its introduction by the Ministry of Transport the previous year.

CTC: Between c 1911 and 1928 an arrangement existed between Bartholomew and the Cyclists' Touring Club for their members to send in any revisions they found to the maps. This was acknowledged by their logo appearing in the lower border of each map.

Table of prices at different periods. It cannot necessarily be taken that the prices were increased at the dates shown, but it may be useful as a guide.
